Christine McVie: Five of Fleetwood Mac's most beloved tunes

Christine McVie was a beloved member of Fleetwood Mac who passed away at the age of 79 after a brief illness. She was not only the keyboardist but also the writer of some of the group's most beloved songs. In this article, we will take a look at five of these tunes and their significance.

Tied to drama

Fleetwood Mac is known for their tumultuous relationships, especially when it comes to romantic ones. One of McVie's most beloved songs, "You Make Loving Fun," was actually penned in honor of the band's lighting director with whom she had an affair, despite being married to another bandmate at the time.

"Don't Stop"

"Don't Stop" was one of the hopeful anthems from their famed "Rumours" album. It was so meaningful to former President Bill Clinton that he used it as his 1992 campaign anthem. In a recent tribute, Clinton expressed his gratitude for Christine McVie and Fleetwood Mac for trusting him with such a meaningful song.

Solo song

McVie also released a solo album, and the first single, "Got a Hold on Me," was actually a solo effort. The song features Fleetwood Mac vibes, with Lindsey Buckingham playing guitar on the track, adding to its appeal.

"Say You Love Me"

"Say You Love Me" is a jaunty tune that has become a mainstay on rock and easy listening radio stations. McVie reflected on the sweet harmonies achieved on the tune in a 1990 interview and described the incredible sound of their three voices in this beloved song.

Tribute to McVie

It feels right that many on social media used “Songbird” to pay tribute to McVie after her passing, as it has become the perfect remembrance of someone lost. The ballad she wrote seems to capture the feeling of loss and remembrance that many are feeling after her death.

Rieger’s thoughts and Clinton tribute

In addition to the song tributes, friends and former President Bill Clinton have paid tribute to McVie. “I’m saddened by the passing of Christine McVie. ‘Don’t Stop’ was my ‘92 campaign theme song,” Clinton wrote.
